5. LENGTH OF OBSERVATION Not Reported	11. BRIEF SUMMARY AND ANALYSIS Witness watching B-52 thought to be at 10-15 miles altitude. While watching B-52 a "crazy looking cigar shaped thing" twice as large as the B-52 at the same altitude flew fast at more than 2,000 mph. Witness believed that it must have had a rear jet motor.
6. TYPE OF OBSERVATION Ground-Visual	COMMENTS: Sighting probably another A/C only at a lower level to give impression of larger size and great speed. No unidentified report from the B-52. Since the B-52 pilot did not report anything unusual it is assumed that the observation was of some conventional object such as another A/C.

On Thursday, Jan. 14, 1965, I was watching a B-52 flying west 8 miles west of Belvoir, Va., about 4:30 P.M. It was flying at 10,000' miles high.

A few minutes later here came a crazy looking Cigar shaped thing twice as more longer than the B-52, same height, heading east a few miles north of the route of the B-52. It must have had a real I.Q. motor and probably was flying at +2,000 miles per hour. I am such a thing & just can not seem to believe or accept what I actually saw. There was no electrical or magnetic field.

P.S. at first I thought same of us must be of a different I.Q.
but there is something with us
both flying same fields.

Yours truly

My dear Sir:

Two years ago I wrote & reported a flying banner.

Early October, 1966 I saw something with some characteristics, as follows, same location.

700 yards N.W. of my place on hundreds of long & thistle, a flicker wind, as the supply & air inclosing were blowing into the atmosphere, by a strong wind, on a clear, bright October day (1966). These petals were blowing from a hill across valley & ridge, and I saw several many thousands of feet & occasionally I would see one caught in a grass or up-grass & would appear as though it were sailing thousands of miles per hour. The above was due to sudden up or cross winds. These thistle blooms or petals have a SHEEN, when sailing across the clear, bright, sunlight.

At this time I sincerely believe that two years ago when I was unaccustomed or unfamiliar with the above — that I saw a cluster of bands of these petals blowing in the wind & what appeared to be a U.F.O. flying at an angle, thousands of miles per hour, was a cluster of the above caught in a sudden, cross wind.

Sincerely
